BANGOR DAILY WHIG AND COURIER.

BY BOUTELLE & BURR. BANGOR, ME., SATURDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 7, 1878. VOLUME XLV—NUMBER 218.

BANGOR

Daily Whig and Courier

THE MAINE WEEKLY COURIER

Business Cards.

NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY

1000 Dozen Files

The Lowest Prices,

No. 33 MILK STREET, - - Exchange St.

American House.

CORNER MIDDLE AND INDIA STREETS,

Albert Family School For Boys,

LITTLE BAY, Falmouth, Maine.

DIOCESAN

Address,

Miss Smith Will Resume Sept. 16th.

For full information address the

RT. REV. SAMUEL UPDEGRAFF,

REMOVAL

APOTHECARY,

No. 4 Strickland's Block,

DRUGS, MEDICINES

TOILET ARTICLES,

Remember the Place—Only One Door West of the Bridge.

No. 4 Strickland's Block,

BANGOR.

OLD ORCHARD BEACH, MAINE.

Ocean Mansion!

JOHN LINCOLN, Proprietor.

GLOBE HOTEL.

Pure Old Cider and White Wine

VINEGAR.

Whole Orders of all kinds, also Cider, Still Supplied.

CHAS. DWINEL'S,

No. 1 Hamlen's Bridge.

Fairbanks, Brown & Co.

REMOVED

to the

NEW AND SPACIOUS STORE

65 MILK STREET,

Corner of Congress Street,

POST OFFICE SQUARE,

BOSTON.

DITSON & CO'S

Musical Record.

A NEW MUSICAL WEEKLY PAPER,

DITSON'S NEW MUSICAL BOOKS

OLIVER DITSON & CO.

WANTED,

Laying Hens.

THE LARGEST STOCK

EVER IN BANGOR.

HARDWARE, IRON, PAPER, &c.,

OFFICE AND YARD,

10 BROAD STREET,

READY FOR WORK

AT ALL TIMES.

DON'T GO PAST

"CATCH 'EM ALIVE!"

Call for the BALLOON DUST TRAP, at

ROSS & BRIDGEHAM'S,

A WORD TO THE WISE

IRON COMPANY,

OFFICE AND YARD,

WASHINGTON & OAK STREETS.

ALL ORDERS FOR

MILL, GARDNER AND OTHER

MACHINERY,

Boilers and Tanks,

NEW AND SECOND HAND

STEAM ENGINES

AND BOILERS,

Will receive prompt attention.

KEY WEST CIGARS

Bread Mixer

KNEADER.

HENRY McLAUGHLIN,

Bangor Steam

SOFT COAL.

AT ABOUT HALF PRICE.

C. W. COFFIN,

10 Main Street.

SOMETHING NEW.

LEATHER DRESSING

WRINGERS

For Rolls of Wringers Repaired.

WATER PIPING.

W. H. FOSTER & SON,

Justice's Blanks.

EDWARD LEAVITT,

No. 12 Central St.

PEASE & WEBB,

Real Estate Brokers

AND GENERAL INSURANCE AGENTS,

FOSTER HEALEY,

Real Estate Broker,

J. E. FOSTER,

ACCOUNTANT,

Commission Merchant

No. 2, Foster's Bagaduce Block,

BANGOR.

M. A. B. MORGAN'S

TEAM, PUMP AND CHAIN

BORING

DONE PROMPTLY.

Orders left at Foster's Bagaduce Block, or at Residence, No. 20 Hancock St., will receive prompt attention.

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

Whig and Courier.

BOUTELLE & BASS, PROPRIETORS.

F. A. BOUTELLE, Editor.

All letters must be addressed to publishers, and all business communications must be addressed "Editors of Whig and Courier."

SATURDAY, SEPT. 9, 1876.

Republican Nominations.

For Governor.

SELDEN CONNOR,

of Androscoggin.

For Representatives to Congress:

First District—WILLIAM P. FRYE, of Lewiston.
Second District—WILLIAM T. JOHNSON, of Bath.
Third District—HARRIS M. PLAISTED, of Augusta.
Fourth District—NELSON DINGLEY, Jr., of Lewiston.

County Nominations.

For Senators:

Penobscot—EDWARD P. SMALLEY, Bangor.
HARVEY D. EATON, Orrington.
LLOYD W. BRADLEY, Brewer.
SAMUEL W. MATTHEWS, Hampden.

For Sheriff:

Penobscot—GEORGE W. WITHEE, Bangor.

For Register of Probate:

Penobscot—AMBROSE C. FLINT, Bangor.

For County Treasurer:

Penobscot—HORACE J. HUMPHREY, Bangor.

For County Commissioner:

Penobscot—JEL D. FISH, Patten.

APPOINTMENTS.

The following appointments are made for Republican meetings in this District, and other speakers will be duly announced. Republican Town Committees are requested to make the necessary arrangements:

Gen. James A. Garfield, of Ohio,
BANGOR.....Saturday, Sept. 9, at 7 P. M.

Thomas M. Bichel, Esq.,
of Chicago, the Secretary of the Republican Congressional Committee,
NEWPORT.....Saturday, Sept. 9, at 7½ P. M.

Gen. John L. Swift of Boston, and
H. L. Mitchell, Esq.,
ORONO.....Saturday, Sept. 9, at 8 P. M.

Hon. E. H. Woalley and Hon. Henry Lord,
HAMPDEN.....Saturday, Sept. 9, at 7½ P. M.

S. W. Matthews, Esq., W. G. Clark, Esq., and Hon. J. W. Porter, ORRINGTON.....Saturday, Sept. 9, at 7½ P. M.

OUR TICKET GLORIOUSLY COMPLETED—NOW FOR VICTORY.

The Republicans of Bangor have every reason to be proud of the grand column last evening and of the candidates so unanimously selected. The names of JOHN L. CUTLER, CHARLES HAYWARD and CHARLES V. LORD need no indorsement by us, nor commendation to the citizens of Bangor. They are men to whom every citizen knows it is safe to entrust the interests of this community in the Legislature or elsewhere, and whose ability and character need no certificate. They are not inciting aspirants for public place or a teeming partisan faction, but have consented, at a sacrifice of their personal inclinations, to yield to the desire of their neighbors and fellow-citizens, at a time when they believe that public duty should be paramount to all minor considerations. Such a delegation in the Legislature will be an honor to our city and to our State, identified with our business and social interests, known to all our citizens as prudent and sagacious, enjoying the esteem of all whose esteem is desirable to any honorable citizen, and in full sympathy with the best impulses of our people. They should receive such a support as will insure their triumphant election on Monday next!

If the people of Bangor cannot elect three such representative men we have fallen upon such evil times as we do not believe have yet arrived. With the spirit of the caucus of last evening permeating the Republican ranks throughout, the city, we can elect them by a handsome majority, and we fully expect to do it! The opposition a ready anticipate defeat, and it only needs a grand rally of the Republican strength to give us a sweeping victory. Let every true friend of sound principles labor to that end until triumph is won at the polls!

Our Closing Rally—Gen. Garfield at Norumbega To-Night.

The final rally of the Republican Honest Money campaign in Bangor will be held in Norumbega Hall this evening, when it will be our good fortune to listen to one of the ablest champions of sound finance that this country has produced—the gallant soldier, distinguished statesman, and eloquent orator—GEN. JAMES A. GARFIELD, of Ohio. He has come from the West to take part in the closing week of the Honest Money campaign in our State, and has already spoken to enthusiastic audiences at several other places in Maine. He comes to us by special invitation, to utter the last word of counsel and exhortation before the battle, and to sound the bugle-call to summon every true patriot to the field.

Gen. Garfield has just been renominated in a Congressional District that has had but three Representatives in fifty-four years—Whittlesey, Giddings and Garfield—and it is safe to say that it has never been represented with more ability or commanded more influence in the country than at present. On the financial issues General Garfield has stood in the House a veritable giant of debate in behalf of a sound currency, and his arguments have crushed through the infinitesimal sophistries like the blows of a Hercules. He will arrive on the Boston steamer to-day and will be the guest of Senator Hamlin during his stay in the city. Let him have a rousing welcome a Norumbega this evening!

REVISING THE VOTING LISTS.

The work of revising the voting lists is now in progress and it is important that every Republican ascertain that his name is properly entered on the list of his ward, and also that any errors in other names known to him be corrected. Information of names omitted or improperly entered should be promptly given to the City Committee, in order that correction be made.

Charles P. Brown and the Mill Tax.

The original gathering of "Tax-Payers," which was gotten up by J. P. Bass, John S. Foster, Charles P. Brown, Marcellus Emery, Levi B. Fatten, and others, on the plea of the "direct talent of Bangor," who "entered themselves as "we, the people," made to principal assault upon our free school system, and after voting to "instruct" the delegation in the Legislature to oppose any "appropriations for the high schools or the normal schools," the "talent" stood up to denounce the speech of the school Mill Tax Law." Less than a month later the same so-called "Tax Payers' Party," nominated Charles P. Brown, as their exponent in the Board of Aldermen, and now they have nominated him for Augusta, to secure the repeal of the "School Mill Tax Law."

Mr. Brown's characteristic facility of getting on both sides of questions is strikingly illustrated in this case. The School Mill Tax Law was introduced and passed in the Legislature of 1873-4, in which one Charles P. Brown was a Representative from the city of Bangor. The records show that on February 21, 1873, when the School Mill Tax Law was passed to be engrossed, Mr. Charles P. Brown not only voted for, but took the floor and urged others to vote for the bill. On February the 20th, when the bill came up to be enacted, a motion was made by an opposing members to refer it to the next Legislature, which promptly brought Mr. Charles P. Brown to his feet, when he made his voice in earnest protest against the motion to refer, and in fervid advocacy of the enactment of the School Mill Tax Law Mr. Brown was really eloquent—that the duty of the wealthy cities to help the "poor barefooted boy in the country" to obtain an education, and members present all remember the pathos with which he pictured the honest mechanic of the law. Even the brief official abstract of the proceedings records Mr. Brown's emphatic position as follows:

"Mr. Brown opposed the motion [to refer to the next Legislature.] He considered [the School Mill Tax Law] A JUST MEASURE, AND MANY OF HIS CONSTITUENTS FAVORED IT."

Now Mr. Brown is bowling himself hoarse over the "badness of taxation" imposed by the Republican party, and is the candidate of a faction that make a specialty of denouncing our delegation last year for failing to repeal a law of which Brown was one of the chief advocates, for which he voted and argued at every stage, and which he emphatically declared "a just measure!"

If the "tax-payers" of Bangor repaired the $6,000 or $8,000 offense committed by them to the educational fund of the State under the School Mill Tax Law, as a hasty and unjust burden, they may find in Mr. Charles P. Brown, the man who is more responsible for it than any other individual in Bangor. At that time he was seeking to gain a reputation as a friend of progress, and the applause of the rural districts now he has turned local "Reformer" and is rushing for votes as a champion of economy and the inexorable foe of all such Republican impositions as the School Mill Tax Law. Mr. Brown in Shylock is what might be called "A Beauty!"

LADIES ESPECIALLY INVITED.

The ladies are especially invited to attend the rousing Norumbega Hall this evening, to extend their welcome to the distinguished statesman from Ohio. The galleries will be reserved for ladies and their escorts. The full corps of the Bangor Cornet Band will be in attendance and furnish their choicest music during the evening.

KRAKEN AND DUTLER.

[From the N. Y. Tribune.]

It has been said that "the Devil can cite Scripture to his purpose," but no one has especially observed that he is in the habit of doing so. The reason is an obvious reason; he must use such weapons as he has, and the sort of people who are his tools are not usually much influenced by citations from Holy Writ. In like manner, the apostles of evil, who appear in human form and themselves impelled to use vast languages may most surely reach the understanding and influence the will of the sort of people who may be led to follow them. Butler, for example, known as a mere horse-trader, dat, stale and unprofitable—when he tries to talk decently, or to put on airs of virtue. As long as he talks to the rabble, and shapes his speech, both in manner and in vocabulary, to suit the tastes and manners of the lowest and basest he is at home, and with that class he is effective. If he tries to reach the judgment or the conscience, he becomes a failure. As the only rival of Butler in blackguardism, Kearney, of California, appears particularly stupid and uninteresting creature whenever he ceases to appeal exclusively to those who like profanity, indecency, and coarse, vulgar and savage invitations; better men than he have had nothing to say that any man of common honesty or decency would wish to say. Butler's blackguardism is better varnished, but it is essentially as foul and bad as that of Kearney.

It is a providential dispensation that these men, in order to move the baser rabble, must disgust all who have clear heads or clean instincts. Mr. Peter Cooper is one always noted for the quietness of his mind in regard to financial questions. But he has none of the instincts of the Butler or the blackguard, so accordingly refused the use of his hall to the profane and brutal Kearney, no doubt believing that support of his opinions by such a person would only tend to make them odious and to engender their defeat. The strange thing is that Mr. Cooper fails to see the perfect harmony between the financial notions held by Kearney and the low prejudices and base passions to which such political appeal. Nine-tenths of the men who hold Mr. Cooper's financial ideas are persons who can be influenced more by the red-hot blasphemy of a dirty man in his shirt sleeves than by the pedestal advice of Mr. Cooper. There are not many people whose instincts are clean enough to be revolted at Kearney's talk who do not also feel that it is dishonest and base to encourage those who have saved something. It does not matter whether the mode of plunder is called inflation, or interconvertible currency, or war upon bond holders, or organized resistance to employers; the acts which Kearney advises are but the logical fruit of the opinions for which Mr. Cooper stands. Thus it comes to pass that decent workingmen have their eyes opened when they hear Kearney blaspheming, and that honest citizens hold their noses when they think of kindling a fire for Butler. The more men of the sort I know of, the quicker they shy again at their old Democratic forces of civilized society. A reign of terror came in France because honest men thought the most savage and brutal to be civil leaders. In this country we have a free press, and the instantaneous telegraph which Kearney loses no chance to denounce, and before long such fellows as Kearney can have around the neck of the Democracy the telegram and the press will have completed their work. Then the friends of every decent man and the implacable enemies of every rascally man who cares for the public welfare, for justice and honesty.

A GRAND REPUBLICAN CHECK.

Three Cheers for the Old Ticket!

NOW FOR VICTORY!

A Committee [illegible] State and Ward Committees [illegible] Esq., Hon. Charles Hayward, and Charles V. Lord Esq., unanimously nominated—Harmonious and Enthusiastic Proceedings.

The Republican caucus at City Hall last evening was as fine a political body as has assembled in that place these many years. It was composed of our solid business men, of our honest, candid, thinking laboring men, who believe that their labor should receive its just reward in good honest money,—paper and coin—the one convertible into the other at the option of the holder. It was a gathering of men whose interests are common in the light now being waged for honesty and integrity, and many who heretofore have been remiss in the matter of attendance on the primaries, were stirred up with the purpose of giving to the great cause before the people their support and their labor for success. It was the common voice of participants, and spectators as well as here the finest caucus ever held in the city. A pleasing feature of the occasion was the absence of all boisterous and noisy demonstrations in the galleries, for which the Republicans are indebted to the fact that Marcellus Emery was addressing an assembly in another hall.

At the appointed hour the Chairman of the Republican City Committee, James Woodbury, Esq., called the assembly to order and read the call, after which he nominated for Chairman Franklin A. Wilson, Esq., the same forward [illegible] the temporary officers of the assemblage and Secretaries as follows:

Mr. Wilson in [illegible] gives pleasure in meeting so many of the business men and tax-payers of this city assembled in earnest deliberation, when in many material and other respects circumstances are altered. It is certain that a change is in the air. Indications upon many questions of public import, to strike [illegible] throughout the State are unmistakable; prepared to shrink from no responsibility, and in honest administration of public affairs.

You can not, you know, as a journalist and the cry of "repudiation" had no terrors for me, so long as the old Democratic party was true to its honest money, hard money traditions; but when its leaders, rendered reckless and desperate by long years of defeat, have in many instances forsaken Jackson, Benton and Buchanan, turned their backs upon the wisdom of those Democratic sages, and by their words and acts announced their willingness to abandon any measures, affiliate with any men to defeat the Republican party, and openly associate with men who stand upon the "Tobey" and Maine Greenback platforms, I considered it the duty of every citizen to "stand up and be counted" for an honest payment of debts, public and private, in honest money.

Fellow Citizens:—What are we opposing in this torrent of fanaticism, repudiation and dishonor? The old Republican party stands again a Democratic party which has [illegible] of Democracy. [illegible] Hancock, [illegible] Morrison, [illegible] Hendricks, [illegible] Randall, [illegible] Bayard, [illegible] Moreover, although "split" to the Greenback party by their leaders, some Democrats in this city, many in this county, more in this District and State, refused to be "bolted" and will in a great support our nominees.

Our opponents, feeling that the [illegible] were going to [illegible] in this city, were now trying to [illegible] by the Democratic organization, and by [illegible] Democratic [illegible] Democratic [illegible] Democratic

Whig and Courier.

SATURDAY, SEPT. 9, 1876.

BY TELEGRAPH.

MAINE NEWS.

[illegible] A GREAT MEETING IN BATH.

[illegible] Thousand Men.

Bath, Sept. 6. A large meeting held in the city this evening was addressed by [illegible] Allen and Chadbourne, Democratic candidate for Governor. Mr. Allen [illegible] Mr. Blaine [illegible] speech of two hours and a half [illegible] Allen [illegible] Democratic [illegible] Democratic [illegible] Democratic

Not a marrying man.

"They were seated together, side by side, on the sofa, in the most unconcerned manner possible, and conversing on the most indifferent topics, etc.

"Jones," he said, you must have read my heart like a book. You must know how dearly I love you."

"Indeed, I have, Brown. I've been reading it for the last six months. Of all things, not to be thought of, is marriage."

"Certainly, and Mrs. Hopkins and Miss Skinner have very good husbands, I believe."

"No people say, but I wouldn't like to attend to either May's or Nelly's duties, that's all."

"I mean, you are rich, Jones."

"Look here, Brown, I've had confidence-operations, and I've written letters to you about it, and you've never answered them. Now, I'll tell you plainly, I don't like you enough to marry you, and I'm sure I never shall. Besides, I'm engaged to Tom Hopkins, and I'm very much in love with him, and I'm very happy, and I'm very much obliged to you for your kind offer, but I'm not going to marry you, and I'm sure you'll be very much happier when you're married to somebody else, and I'm very much obliged to you for your kind offer, but I'm not going to marry you, and I'm sure you'll be very much happier when you're married to somebody else."

"Very many, do you think, my sisters marriage? Not the least of ours, either of them. Much pretty talk as Mary had Nellie were too, and no more attention to her than anyone knew?"

"Well, I must confess I do go to the theatre occasionally as well as a variety of concert entertainment, and I shouldn't like to be proposed attending any such entertainment to be invariably told I had eaten wine, hard and was intelligent enough either to ask me then to keep them out of sight."

"Indeed, I mean it a dog's age to ask confidence to go with me anywhere in the evening. I shouldn't like to be left to pay my way through a concert, unless I had my self-possession completely by my side. I'm also superstitious, chewing tobacco, and I hold the profession of a living man."

"Then, this is all you mean."

"I'm the youngest of my family, and perhaps he's the spoiled. At all events I know it would break my heart to have my husband treat all the tenderness which he conceals from the world of my affections had."

"But, Lizzie, I suppose you don't mean that you would like me to ask you to marry me? Of course you would be very much pleased, but you are not going to do it."

"Yes, you are going to do it."

"Then I say, Fred, I've two more days' leave, and I'll spend them with you."

"Certainly, and Mrs. Hopkins and Miss Skinner have very good husbands, I believe."

"No people say, but I wouldn't like to attend to either May's or Nelly's duties, that's all."

"I mean, you are rich, Jones."

"Look here, Fred, I've had confidence-operations, and I've written letters to you about it, and you've never answered them. Now, I'll tell you plainly, I don't like you enough to marry you, and I'm sure I never shall. Besides, I'm engaged to Tom Hopkins, and I'm very much in love with him, and I'm very happy, and I'm very much obliged to you for your kind offer, but I'm not going to marry you, and I'm sure you'll be very much happier when you're married to somebody else, and I'm very much obliged to you for your kind offer, but I'm not going to marry you, and I'm sure you'll be very much happier when you're married to somebody else."

"Very many, do you think, my sisters marriage? Not the least of ours, either of them. Much pretty talk as Mary had Nellie were too, and no more attention to her than anyone knew?"

"Well, I must confess I do go to the theatre occasionally as well as a variety of concert entertainment, and I shouldn't like to be proposed attending any such entertainment to be invariably told I had eaten wine, hard and was intelligent enough either to ask me then to keep them out of sight."

"Indeed, I mean it a dog's age to ask confidence to go with me anywhere in the evening. I shouldn't like to be left to pay my way through a concert, unless I had my self-possession completely by my side. I'm also superstitious, chewing tobacco, and I hold the profession of a living man."

"Then, this is all you mean."

"I'm the youngest of my family, and perhaps he's the spoiled. At all events I know it would break my heart to have my husband treat all the tenderness which he conceals from the world of my affections had."

"But, Lizzie, I suppose you don't mean that you would like me to ask you to marry me? Of course you would be very much pleased, but you are not going to do it."

"Yes, you are going to do it."

"Then I say, Fred, I've two more days' leave, and I'll spend them with you."

SAWFORD'S
JAMAICA GINGER
THE GENUINE PREPARATION OF JAMAICA GINGER, CAPSICUMS, AND OTHER POWERFUL AND VALUABLE REMEDIES.

SAWFORD'S JAMAICA GINGER

ELECTRIC FLUID

COLLINS'S VOLTAIC PLASTERS.

DON'T DELAY

PUBLIC NOTICE.

I SAY!

MRS. AMES GOULD,

GETCHELL, LEIGHTON, & CO.,
PLUMBERS,
MANUFACTURERS OF
GALVANIZED GUTTERS AND VENTILATORS,
And Dealers in Drain Pipe.
20 CENTRAL STREET.

SUCCESSORS TO A. LEIGHTON.
PLUMBING, STEAM-FITTING,
AND WATER-PIPING.
Manufacturers of Galvanized Cornice and Gutters.
Also dealers in Drain and Sewer Pipe.
Exchange, Corner of York Street.

WILL EXHIBIT ONE DAY ONLY ON AT

VAN AMBURGH & CO'S
Great Golden Menagerie
AND

Frost's Royal Circus
BIRDS & REPTILES,
Behemoth of Holy Writ,
OR DOUBLE HORNED UNICORN,
THE HIPPOPOTAMUS HOG!
3 of the Most Champion Riders
Four Horses.
EDUCATED ELEPHANTS!
RARE AND STRANGE LIVING WONDERS

The only Single Performing Elephant
"BOLIVAR,"

A DOUBLE COMPANY
AT THE SAME TIME!
75 Arabian Ring Horses.
Four Great Clowns.
The Lions fed before the audience daily, at 4 P. M.
First Herr Kopp's Musical Brigade
Two well trained to equine exposure.
The Troupe of Royal Japanese Jugglers.
The Wonderfully Educated Dogs and Monkeys.
Largest Elephants in America.
A Live Lion Loose on the Streets.
A Team of Elks in Harness.
Positively the Only Combined
Circus & Menagerie
IN MAINE THIS SEASON.

A Regular Break Down!
THE BIGGEST SLAUGHTER YET.
Immense Bargains in Men's and Boy's Clothing.
from 40.00 to 4.00.
from 8.75 to 3.00.
from 4.00 to 2.00.
from 2.50 to 1.00.
from 2.00 to 1.00.
from 1.50 to 1.00.
from 1.00 to 0.50.
from 0.75 to 0.50.
from 0.50 to 0.25.
from 0.25 to 0.10.
from 0.10 to 0.05.
from 0.05 to 0.01.
from 0.01 to 0.00.
from 0.00 to 0.00.
from 0.00 to 0.00.
from 0.00